

Author's warranty and publishing agreement (a)

Please complete all details and return to the AAMT Office.

Author's name: _____

Address: _____

Phone: _____ Email: _____

Title: _____

This is an agreement between the author and The Australian Association of Mathematics Teachers (AAMT) Inc. with the following understandings:

1. The author has full power to make this agreement.
2. The author warrants that this is an original work that has not been previously published or submitted to any other publisher for publication.
3. The author warrants that the work does not violate any existing copyright or licence; it is understood that, where relevant, the author has sought and been granted permission by the copyright owners to reproduce any material contained in the work to which the author does not own copyright.
4. The author warrants that all statements made in the work are true, and are not libellous or unlawful; any instructions or suggested actions contained in the work, if followed, will not be injurious to the reader or others.
5. The author will indemnify the AAMT against any claim, loss, injury, damage, cost, expense or liability occasioned to the AAMT by any claim, action or proceeding arising out of a breach or violation of this warranty.
6. The AAMT reserves the right to alter the text of the work or any included images or diagrams for the purposes of clarification or abridgement; also to remove or amend any passage which may be considered objectionable or likely to be actionable at law, without affecting the author's liability.
7. The author agrees to transfer ownership of all copyright applicable to the work (except that to which the author has no rights and has used with permission) to the AAMT, with the understanding that:
 - (a) the author may make limited copies for circulation among professional colleagues or for teaching purposes;
 - (b) the author may use all or part of the work in any subsequent book written by the author;
 - (c) the author may use part of the work in any subsequent chapter or paper written by the author;
 - (d) the author must seek permission from the AAMT to reproduce the work in its entirety in any subsequent publication other than a book written by the author;
 - (e) the author may lodge a version of the work in a repository maintained by the author's institution (and the AAMT will provide a PDF upon request of the author or institution);
 - (f) the AAMT may republish the work in part or in its entirety and will acknowledge the work as that of the author;
 - (g) the AAMT may grant others the right to republish or distribute the work as published by AAMT.

Signed _____ Date _____

Note: This warranty affirms rights and provides protection for all parties.

Any queries regarding this agreement should be directed to:

Toby Spencer, AAMT Communications Officer (tspencer@aamt.edu.au) at the AAMT Office.